

Report of

LECTURE-CUM-INTERACTION

November 1, 2019

Delhi State Centre of The Institution of Engineers (India) organized a Lecture-cum-interaction with TAI and NISTI on November 1, 2019 at Institutions' Premises. Shri Ashok Kulkarni, Expert in Textile and Non Woven delivered a lecture.

Delivering the welcome address in the Inaugural Session, Shri Dinesh Kumar, Chairman, Delhi State Centre-IEI apprised about The Institution of Engineers (India) is the largest multidisciplinary professional body of 9.5 Lakh engineers that encompasses 15 engineering disciplines and gives engineers a global platform from where to share professional interest. Further He apprised that Delhi State Centre has the privilege of having many engineering personalities of high eminence as President of The Institution of Engineers (India) from Delhi – like Dr A N Khosla, Major Gen Harkirat Singh, Dr T Sen, Maj Gen S P Vohra and Shri O P Goel. The Total Corporate Membership of the Delhi State Centre is now over 9350 having representatives from 15 Engineering disciplines and about 26379 non-corporate members consisting of Technicians, Sr. Technicians and Graduates.

Representative of TAI and Representative of NISTI give presentation.

Shri Ashok Kulkarni, Expert in Textile and Non Woven delivering the Key-Note address on topic "Non Woven Technology & It's Application". He apprised that Nonwovens find numerous applications ranging from baby diapers to industrial high performance textiles. Some of the important areas where nonwovens are treated as primary alternative for traditional textiles as Geotextiles, materials for building, thermal and sound insulating materials, hygienic and health care textiles and automotive industries. Nonwovens are also used in cover stocks, agriculture, aerospace, home furnishings etc. Further he mentioned that With the nonwovens successfully moving into more technical end-uses, the fiber requirements have also become more important with regard to the fiber properties. The cooperation between fiber supplier and fabric producers is now seen as important criteria for more advancement to come about in the nonwovens field.

Vote of thanks was delivered by Dr Shailesh Kaushik, Former Member, Delhi State Centre Committee-IEI.

Nearly 40 members, guests, Corporate Members, invitees and Students Members attended the function.

